

WAR! What Is It All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour glistening just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother Serbia?

Tear aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions may be sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by one of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give to you

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Guizot completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past lie the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

USING RYE FOR GREEN FEED

When Cut Just Before It Commences to Head It Is Relished by Cows—Wheat Is Also Good.

Rye cut just before it commences to head makes an excellent early green feed for milk cows. When in full head the stalks become tough and woody, and much of it will be rejected by the stock. Wheat drilled at the rate of three bushels per acre, on rich, mellow ground, makes a good second, early green feed. Wheat has more leaf and is much relished by all stock, especially cows and sows with sucking pigs. For a herd of twelve to fourteen head of cows in full milk, one acre should be drilled to rye and one acre to wheat. The ground for these early, green feeds should be deep, mellow and heavily dressed with rotted cow manure spread broadcast and well harrowed in before drilling. Diluted urine from the manure vault spread during the winter when ground is slightly frozen, will greatly increase the yield and early maturity of both rye and wheat. The rye and wheat for early, green feed should be seeded to red clover and herds grass, as a half yield of hay may be cut from the same field the latter part of August. This is the favorite method with the dairymen in this part of the state as the one plowing and fertilizing answers for a crop of rye and several crops of hay, says a writer in Baltimore American. Rye, if not wanted for grain, when too tough for the cows should be cut and cured for hay. If quickly cured without getting damaged by rain, it makes an excellent hay. One-half peck of salt spread to the ton as it is hauled in will improve its feeding value and also prevent molding in the mow. After the rye hay is hauled in roll the stubble down and sow two bushels of hardwood ashes to the acre. This mixture, sown as soon as rye crop is removed, will increase the growth of the clover and grass.

WIRES FOR CUTTING BUTTER

Excellent Arrangement of Ohio Man for Making Small Square Pieces for Individual Use.

For the speedy and neat division of a cake of butter into a number of small square pieces for individual use, the butter cutter designed by an Ohio man seems to fill the bill admirably. A standard has a cutter frame rotatable upon it. A platform holds the butter cake, and at the end of the platform is another frame, like the footboard of a bed, with two fine wires bisecting it both ways. The rotatable frame has a set of fine wires running across it parallel to each other. The butter is placed on the platform, and this upper frame is pressed down through it, the wires separating it into so many square slabs, about an inch thick. The cake is then forced out through the other frame and divided into four times as many smaller squares.

Keeping Milk in Summer.

When ice or cold water cannot be obtained, or where a can of milk has to be left in a place where water and ice cannot be conveniently used, a wet cloth—preferably flannel—wrapped around the can is an aid in keeping milk cool.

One end of the cloth is best left extending from the bottom of the can and immersed in a pail of water. A large amount of the sun rays falling on the wet cloth is consumed in evaporating moisture, and is thus prevented from reaching the milk. So long as the cloth is kept wet it is a protection, but as soon as it becomes dry heat passes through it to the milk and interrupted.

Pure Bred Cows Best.

The pure bred cow carries a great possibility of reproduction of the qualities of her ancestors. Her power of heredity predominates because she is bred for that particular line. The scrub cow is likewise a great example of hereditary influence but her tendencies are along the lines of inferior production and a yield that does not make a profit.

Deserves Good Water.

The dairy cow deserves the best water that can be had. It is not only good for her but it is good for the milk.
